Janus Henderson Investors

The notion of "connecting" is powerful – it has shaped our evolution and our world today. At Janus Henderson, we seek to benefit clients through the connections we make. Connections enable strong relationships based on trust and insight as well as the flow of ideas among our investment teams and our engagement with companies. These connections are central to our values, to what active management stands for and to the long-term outperformance we seek to deliver. Janus Henderson's investment professionals have expertise across all major asset classes and clients spanning the globe.
